Let's Think
Fares the Regretful.

Fares sat on the park bench, encouraging his friends while they were playing.

He was very excited, and wished he was playing with them.

3

Fares remembered the little cartoy that his little brother left on the ground.

4

Fares felt lazy at that time, he did not bother himself to keep it out of the walk.

5

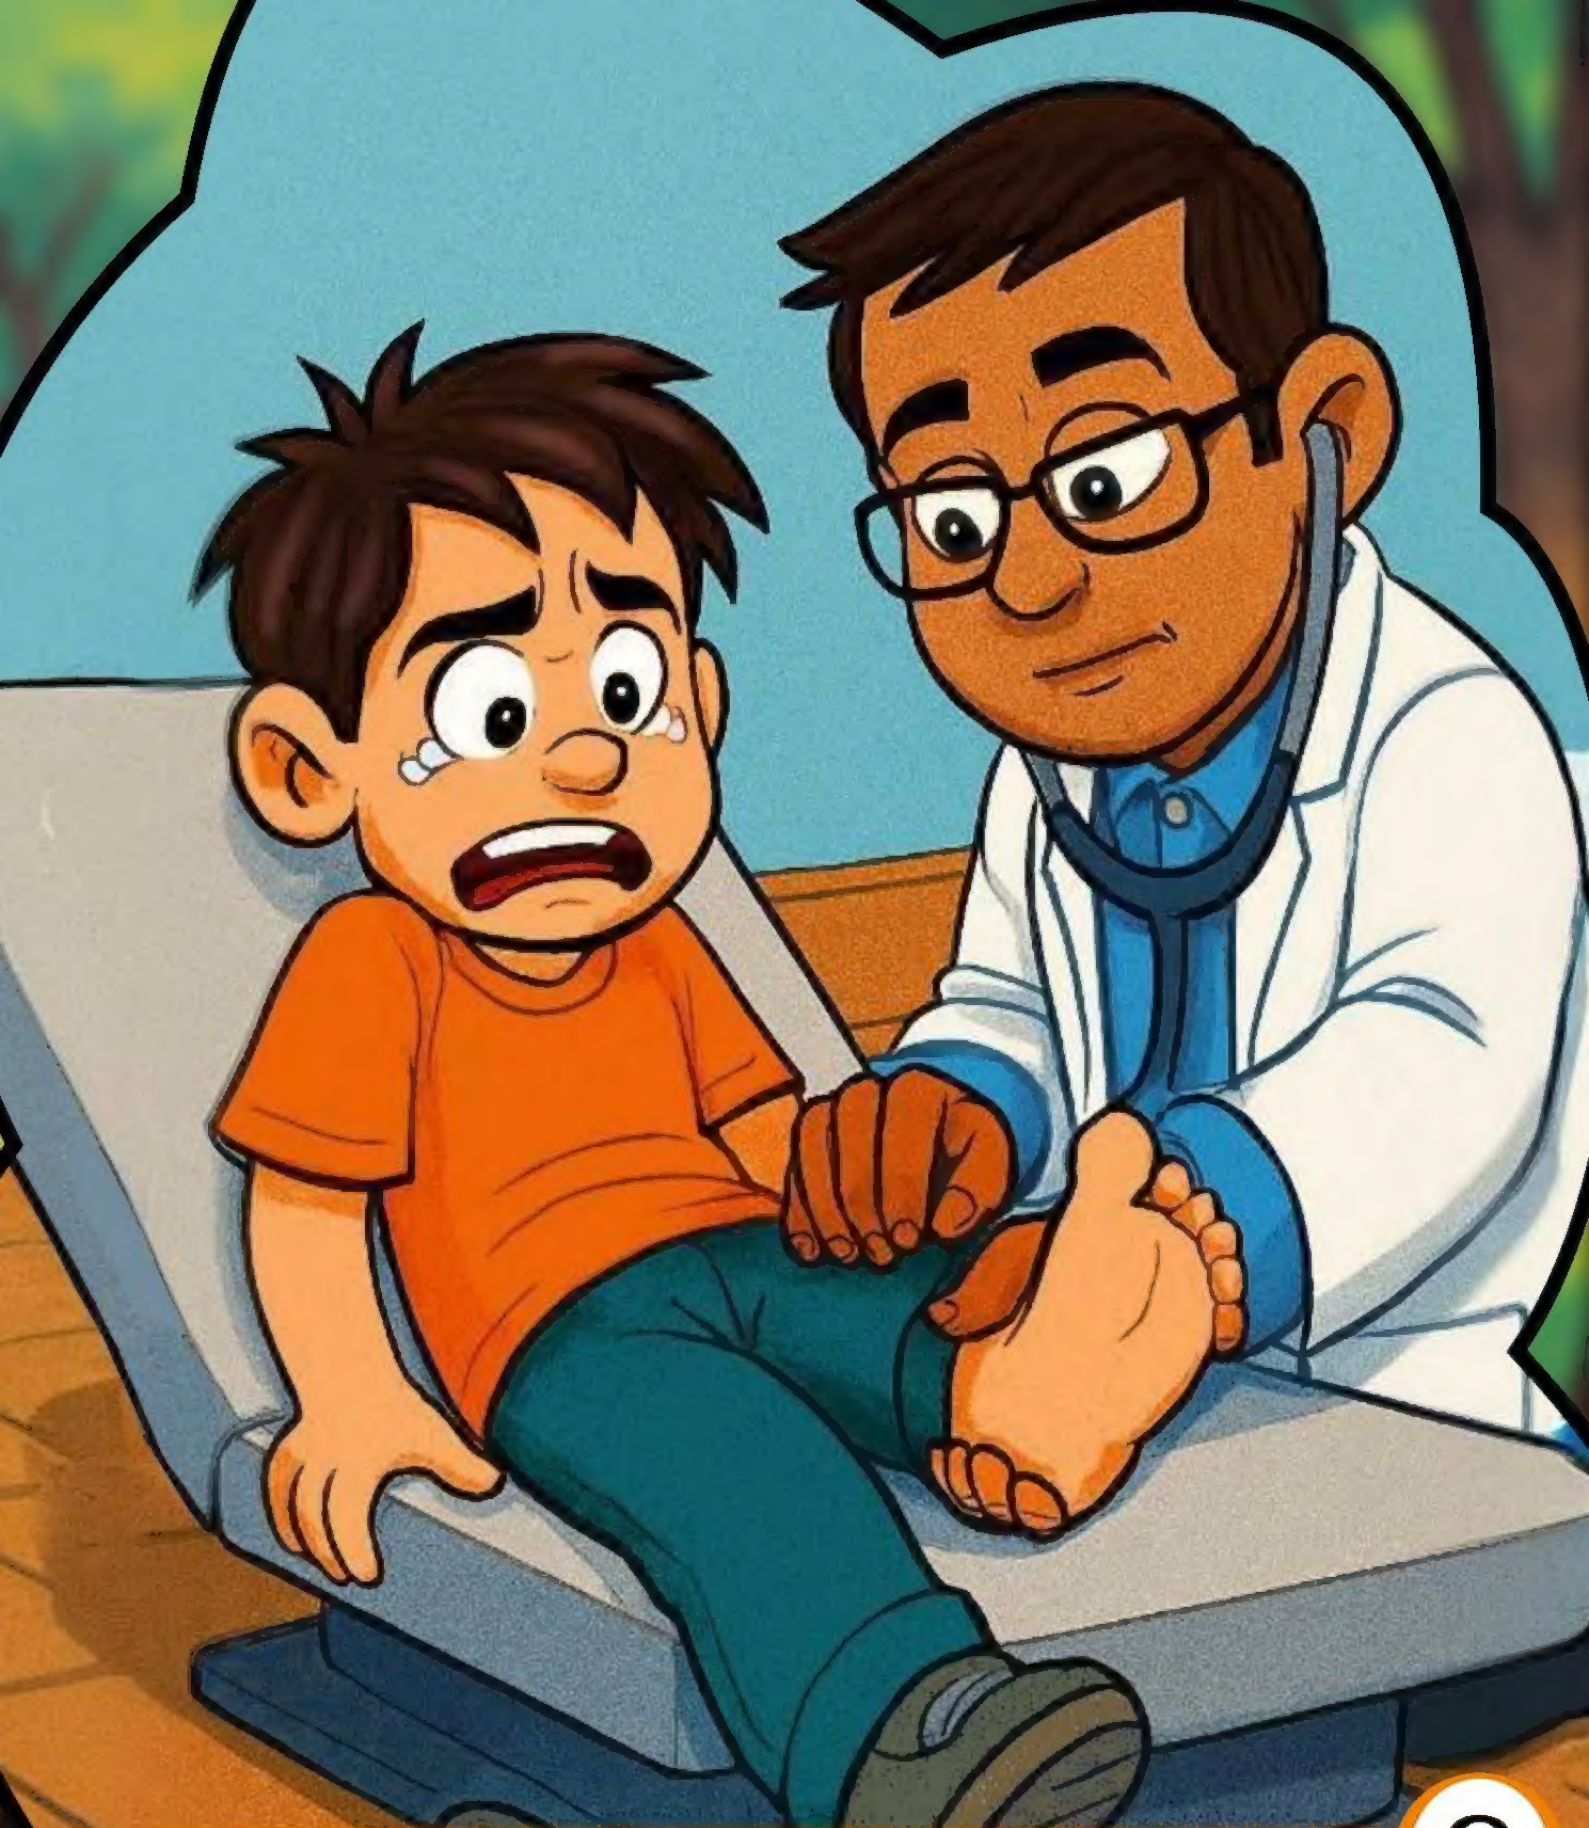

And after an hour he was playing with his brother, running, when..

He trampled on the little car,
and quickly slipped

He fell on the ground very painfully, and he started screaming

Half an hour later, the doctor had told him that his ankle had been twisted.

9

After thinking, Fares looked toward the sky and remembered the hadith of the Prophet ﷺ:

10

« Removing harm from the road is a form of charity »

11

Faris said: Had I obeyed you,
O Messenger of Allah, ...

..I would now be well; playing with my friends, and my deeds would have increased in charity

- Find another meaning for the word "Removing" mentioned in the hadith, as it is hidden in the picture:

Removing =

- What is the largest number of charity acts you can collect?
